

RAPTORS!

All about birds of prey in Counties Clare, Galway & Tipperary

1ST, 2ND & 3RD CLASSES

This is a Peregrine Falcon, the fastest animal on the planet! Learn about them, and other raptors inside...

Hi! I'm Barney, the Owl!

An Chomhairle Oldhreachta

I will be your guide for this book!

This is a Hen Harrier.

It is one of the rarest raptors in Ireland.
Clare, Galway and Tipperary are really important counties for Hen Harriers!

Where's Barney?

Barn Owls have to search far and wide to hunt for mice. There are 5 BARNEY OWLS and 5 MICE hidden throughout this book... See if you can find them all!

What is a Raptor?

A raptor is another name for a bird of prey. Raptors are powerful birds which hunt animals or feed off (scavenge) dead animals. All raptors have strong hooked beaks, sharp talons (or claws) and excellent eyesight to allow them to find food and survive.

A huge White-tailed Eagle

Many different kinds of raptors, including falcons, owls, harriers and eagles, live in Clare, Galway and Tipperary, from the smallest, which is a falcon called the Merlin (just a little bigger than a thrush), to the largest, which is the enormous White-tailed Eagle

From one wingtip to the other, and eagles' wings are about 2.3 metres...

...much taller than you are!

Look at just how big a White-tailed Eagle really is!

And this is the size of the smallest, a teeny, tiny Merlin

Why do raptors look like they do?

All raptors are specially designed to allow us to survive.

Look at all the cool features which I have so that I can find and catch food at night

Raptor superpowers!

My wing feathers have special soft edges and barbs which makes my flight completely silent...

My ears are hidden behind my feathers. They are huge compared to how big I am. It would be like you walking around with elephant-sized ears!

I have long legs, and sharp, strong talons so that I can catch rats and mice!

I have amazing hearing! This is my best hunting tool of all. Look at my heart-shaped face. These feathers act like a satellite dish to help me hear the slightest noises. My hearing is so good I can even find and catch small mammals in complete pitch black darkness!!

What raptors can you see in Clare, Galway & Tipperary?

Counties Clare, Galway and Tipperary are great places to see raptors. Here are some you might see

Kestrel Pochaire gaoithe

A small falcon, very adaptable, lives throughout the country. Eats a range of prey including insects, birds, frogs and small mammals. Famous for hanging motionless in the air when it hunts, like a kite. One of most common birds of prey in Ireland... you might see one hovering over the motorway edges!

- Kestrel Pochaire gaoithe ✓
- Buzzard Clamhán ✓
- Sparrowhawk Spioróg ✓
- Merlin Meirliún ✓
- Peregrine Falcon Fabhcún gorm ✓
- Long-eared Owl Ceann cait ✓

Barn Owl

Scréachóg reilige

The 'white owl', only comes out at night time. Known as the 'farmers friend' because they catch rats and mice on farms. They don't make a 'twit-twoo' call like you might think. In fact, the adults have a really loud screech, and the babies snore!

Buzzard

Clamhán

Looks like a small eagle. Often seen on farmland

Sparrowhawk Spioróg

One of the most common birds of prey in Ireland. Hunts by surprising smaller birds with short, fast dashes. One has probably visited your garden, or near to your house.

Hen Harrier

Comán na gcearc

One of the rarest birds of prey in Ireland. There are not many left but your county is really important for Hen Harriers! The uplands where they live are under threat, which is not good news for Hen Harriers.

White-tailed Sea Eagle

Iolar mara

A huge eagle. Lives along the coast or around big lakes. Loves fish!

Eagles were reintroduced to Ireland after they died out (became extinct) here 100 years ago.

Lough Derg is perfect for White-tailed Eagles because there are suitable islands they can nest on, and loads of fish for them to eat.

Peregrine Falcon

Fabhcún gorm

Very strong raptor. Catches big birds like ducks and pigeons. Lives along the coast on high cliffs and also in quarries and on tall buildings... even in cities and towns!

All the other raptors in this book live close to the lake also.

Long-eared Owl

Ceann cait

A brown owl which nests in trees. Only comes out at night. It is more common than the Barn Owl, but very difficult to see. One probably lives close to your house or school!

Merlin

Meirliún

A tiny falcon. Lives in very quiet places where there aren't many people. Very difficult to find. Very agile fliers.

What do raptors eat?

Different raptors eat loads of different types of animals from beetles and worms to rabbits and foxes, and other birds!

Raptors sit at the top of the food chain. This is a very important position, and we need them in the countryside.

Nesting and nest sites

finding a safe place to raise a family

Different raptors need different places to nest

Kestrel – “I can nest in loads of different places. All I need is a suitable flat ledge out of the wind and rain to lay my eggs. I am not good at building a nest with sticks, but I will use a stick nest built by another bird!”

Kestrel chicks

A Peregrine chick on a cliff ledge

Peregrine Falcon

“I nest on a ledge on the highest cliffs, either in the mountains or on the coast. I can also nest on the top of big buildings in towns and cities where nobody can bother me. These buildings give me great views, and are like cliffs made by people!”

Sparrowhawk –

“I build a small nest of twigs in a tree, in a really quiet thick hedge, or in a woodland.”

Barn Owls, like me, live in ruined buildings and old castles. We often nest down really deep chimneys. Home sweet home!

Hen Harrier –

“I nest on the ground. This sounds simple, but I need a special type of place, where I can hide my nest from other animals so my chicks will be safe. I like hilly areas where there are not many people. This is one of the reasons why I am so rare.”

Hen Harrier chick

White-tailed Eagle – “I build a huge nest of sticks, high in a big tree, usually on an island. This can be on the coast or on a big lake, like Lough Derg.”

Like all raptors, I have to find the best places to hunt. These places can be a lo-o-o-ng way from my nest. Can you see the way back to my nest in the old castle?
